Be part of our 2018 organising convention and build union strength in your workplace.

Saturday 10th March 2018, 09:30am - 5:30pm
Mechanics Institute, Princess Street, Manchester

We know a bigger, stronger, more active UNISON can win for members.

Last year, UNISON North West recruited over 22,000 new members for the third year running, and made strides forward with our care workers for change campaign. We know that where we can identify leaders, organise and build organic links with members at workplace level, we can win - but sometimes this can be easier said than done.

At Skills for Strength, our annual organising convention, we bring together union and community organisers who have been involved in successful campaigns across the UK and the world together with UNISON NW activists to share experiences, develop skills, and build the strategies to win in 2018 and beyond.

All UNISON activists in North West Region are eligible to attend and tickets are free, so don't lose out and register for your place online today:
